MR. S. P. AVERY respectfully announces that he has been authorized by Messrs. John H. Sherwood and Benjamin Hart to sell at public auction their valuable collections of paintings, by noted American and Foreign artists.

They will be on exhibition at the galleries of the "National Academy of Design," corner of 23d Street and 4th Avenue, from Saturday, December 6th, until Wednesday, December 17th (inclusive). They will be sold at Chickering Hall, by R. Somerville, auctioneer, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, December 17th and 18th. The importance of these collections will make the sale second (only) in value in the history of art-auctions in this country.

Mr. Sherwood's collection has been made familiar in many generous ways, and he has been long and favorably known for his efforts in behalf of art, and for his liberal patronage of our home school. Nearly all of his pictures, by American, English, and Scotch artists, were painted expressly to his order, and many are the master-pieces of their authors.

Mr. Hart's collection is composed entirely of works by foreign artists of distinction in the different schools, collected by him during several years of residence abroad, with great taste, care, and cost, and under most favorable intercourse with the artists, and having been rarely seen out of his house in Madison Avenue, they will have the charm of novelty.

Mr. Sherwood not being a housekeeper, and Mr. Hart intending in future to reside abroad, are the reasons for the disposal of these choice collections. Not a single painting has been withheld, nothing has been added; the word of these gentlemen has been pledged that not one shall be bought in, and Mr. Avery is charged to see that this pledge will be strictly carried out.

* * The sale will be under the supervision of S. P. Avery, of No. 86 Fifth Avenue, to whom orders to purchase and other communications may be addressed.* *

John Howell was a noted character, a lovable, quaint, picturesque old man, who died only a few years ago in Edinburgh. He called himself a poly-artist; he was a dealer in curiosities, also was a collector of old ballads, and a man of some scholarship, among other things having written the best treatise upon Roman galleys. He was frequently visited by Sir Walter Scott, who had much in common with the old man, and for whom he had great respect.

DEATH OF ROXANA.

29 x 25

The scene reproduced by the artist was suggested by Racine's Tragedy. Bajazet was brother of Amurat, 4th Sultan of the Turkish Empire, who ascended the throne 1623. This sovereign had designated from among his wives, Roxana, to bear the title of Sultana ; this lady forgot the debt of gratitude she owed to him who had preferred her to her rivals, in abandoning herself without scruples to the passion she felt awakening in her heart for Bajazet. She was in possession of an order for his death, that Amurat had confided to her prior to his departure for the conquest of Babylonia. Roxana did not long hide from the knowledge of this prince the power with which she was clothed, and, furthermore, offered to aid him to usurp the throne, if he would put himself at the head of a revolt, which would result in the death of Amurat, on condition he would marry her. Bajazet had long loved Attalida, his cousin, an obscure personage at the imperial court. Roxana, annoyed by the repeated refusals of Bajazet, ordered his assassination ; she herself was soon put to death by a messenger sent by Amurat, who had been secretly informed of her projects of treason toward her master.

75

The Giralda (so called from its vane, que gira, turns round; is the finest specimen of pure Saracenic architecture in existence) was the Meuddin tower of the adjoining mosque used to call the faithful to prayer. It was built in 1195, by Abur Yusef Yacub. The foundation is made of destroyed Roman and Christian statuary, the rest of a light-colored brick. The Moorish part was 250 feet high; the upper part of 100 feet was added by Fernando Ruis, 1568. The vane in the pinnacle, the figure of Faith, is the marvel of all Spaniards, as it weighs 2,800 pounds, and turns with the slightest wind. The tower is 50 feet square, and, seen from a distance, is the most imposing object in Seville.

Very fine 4 pines

“The two parties being confronted before him, each produced a book of accounts, written in a language and character that would have puzzled any but a High Dutch commentator, or a learned decypherer of Egyptian obelisks, to understand. The sage Wouter took them one after the other, and having poised them in his hands, and attentively counted over the number of leaves, fell straightway into a very great doubt, and smoked for half an hour without saying a word; at length, laying his finger beside his nose, and shutting his eyes for a moment, with the air of a man who has just caught a subtle idea by the tail, he slowly took his pipe from his mouth, puffed forth a column of tobacco-smoke, and, with marvellous gravity and solemnity, pronounced—that having carefully counted over the leaves and weighed the books, it was found that one was just as thick and heavy as the other; therefore, it was the final opinion of the Court that the accounts were equally balanced—therefore, Wandle should give Barent a receipt, and Barent should give Wandle a receipt.”—Knickerbocker's History of New York.

“Whether it was by counsel of others, or by the Queen’s own desire, we know not ; but the Queen spake with John Knox, and had long reasoning with him, none being present except the Lord James. The sum of their reasoning was this. . . . ‘Yea,’ quoth she, ‘but ye are not the Kirk that I will nourish. 48 x 36

The locality of this picture (destroyed in 1872) was called Dunbar's Close, Lawn Market. This Close got its name after the battle of Dunbar (1650), when Cromwell marched to, and took possession of Edinburgh. This Close he fixed upon as the headquarters of his army, and to this locality were brought prisoners, both Cavaliers and Presbyterians, who were both at enmity with the Cromwellian Roundheads. The bartizan in the middle of the picture was that from which Cromwell received his troops in the fields at the opposite side of the valley where the "New Town" now stands. He could also see his fleet as it rode at anchor in the Frith of Forth.
